

BUILDING X DATA ONBOARDING AND CONNECTIVITY

What if you could focus more time on growing your business?

Digital building solutions are becoming more powerful, more connected, and more complex. As a partner, you are expected to deliver high-quality deployments faster than ever, while customer expectations continue to rise. At the same time, manual onboarding processes and technical complexity can slow down delivery and make scaling difficult.

Your teams may spend valuable time on technical setup, coordination, and troubleshooting – time that could be better spent on customers, innovation, and business growth. As complexity increases, maintaining speed and quality across projects becomes increasingly challenging.

This is where Building X Data Onboarding and Connectivity can help.

SIEMENS

What Building X Data Onboarding and Connectivity provides

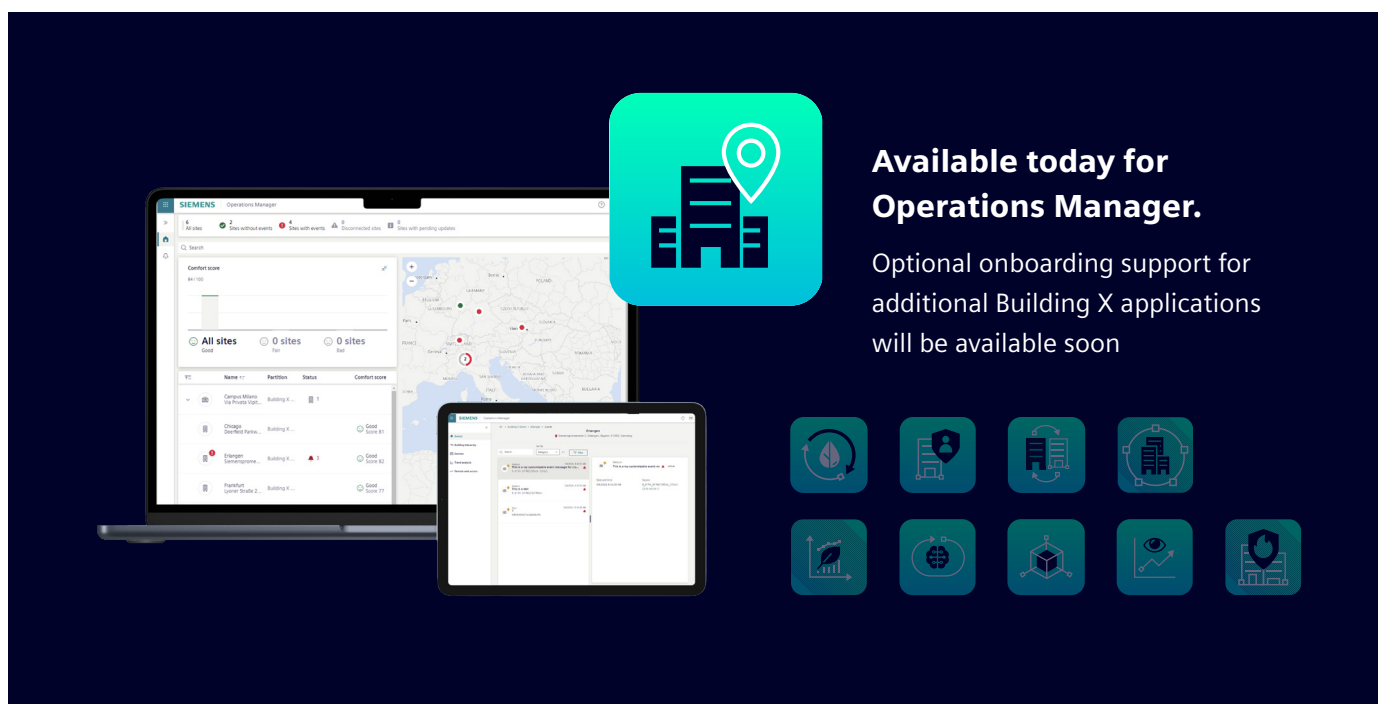

A Siemens-delivered onboarding service that takes the technical onboarding effort off your teams' shoulders and ensures a smooth, error-free start with Building X applications.

The service supports you by:

- Managing the technical onboarding activities on your behalf, so your teams don't need to handle complex setup and configuration
- Leveraging Siemens experts with deep Building X knowledge to execute onboarding correctly from the start

- Reducing the risk of errors, delays, and rework during the onboarding phase
- Accelerating deployment while maintaining quality and confidence
- Allowing your teams to stay focused on customer engagement and service delivery

Designed to reduce complexity, the service enables you to onboard customers confidently – without adding operational burden to your teams.

Available today for Operations Manager.

Optional onboarding support for additional Building X applications will be available soon

Business outcomes that matter for you as a partner

By using the Building X Data Onboarding and Connectivity Service, you rely on Siemens to execute the technical onboarding on your behalf. Our experts take responsibility for the onboarding phase, ensuring the Building X environment is configured correctly from the start – without requiring your teams to manage setup or coordination activities. By relying on Siemens to manage the onboarding phase, you gain tangible business outcomes:

Accelerate deployment & time-to-value

You bring customers live faster by handing over onboarding execution to Siemens experts, avoiding delays caused by setup and coordination.

Reduce risk & operational burden

You minimize the risk of configuration errors and rework. Siemens ensures the onboarding is executed correctly, protecting quality and customer satisfaction.

Enable scalable growth

You expand your digital service portfolio without adding internal overhead. Your teams remain focused on growth, relationships, and value creation – while Siemens handles the technical onboarding behind the scenes.