Building management software as a service – an active contributor to your core business

How can you leverage digital disruption through innovative business models?

Every industry has its digital disruptors.

The automotive industry is representing 33% of every euro spent on research and development (R&D).

Amazon Go cashierless stores generate
50% more revenue than typical convenience stores.

After the introduction of the Google Maps navigation app
85% of the market capitalization of stand-alone GPS devices had evaporated.

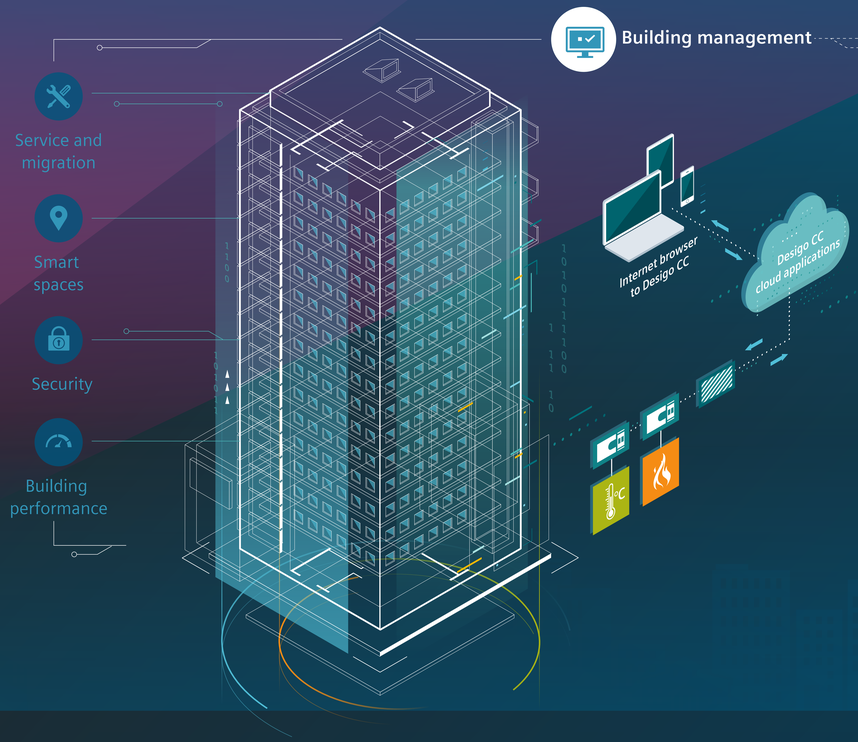
In the building industry...

Workspace and flexibility: By 2030
30% of corporate real estate portfolio will comprise of flexible office spaces.

digital disruption generates business challenges for building owners and tenants.

How do you ensure your building isn't holding you back?

Building management software as a service increases occupant satisfaction by improving your building operations effectiveness.



Cloud building operations is the way forward.

- Immediate access to new features
- Always up to date
- Enhanced cybersecurity
- Lower initial investments
- Less hardware to maintain
- Simplified maintenance

With the right combination of people, technology and services we provide data-driven insights and actions enabling you to make informed decisions to enhance your building performance and gain an even greater competitive advantage.

Sources:
mckinsey.com
csnews.com
navigantresearch.com

siemens.com/smart-buildings